When Supply is Tight and Costs are High

ISSUE

Our client were struggling with their current supply of lubricators, which were becoming increasingly difficult to source and increasing in expense.

ERIKS were approached by the customer to see if we could offer an equivalent to the lubricators the customer was using.

SOLUTION

The ERIKS Bearing & Lubrication Application Engineer looked at this problem and recommended the Simalube offering as a solution.

This resulted in a significant cost saving as well as the assurance with the Simalube products being exstock they would be readily available as and when needed.

OTHER BENEFITS

- Increased product life
- Reduced product cost

FURTHER COMMENTS...

The customer has changed all units to Simalube and they are very happy with the results
